with as many serial killers as possible. That is why I have started to label their behaviour into categories. I find that they do not all have the same interest in their victims. For some, it is a sexual pleasure with masocism, others enjoy and become sexually excited with just the sadistic crime, and yet still others are trying to correct problems they had in their pasts (Oedipus complex). This is why it is imperative to define which type of serial killer you will be profiling and talking about. Again, thank you for your reply. I hope i cleared few things and i hpe it is all rational, and fits a profile of a serial killer. Yossi - Hide quoted text -- Show quoted text -Angela
