
love the future Any chance of having something similar in the spring?

Posted by MissMotleys - 2010/01/08 16:28

Thank you everyone who helped set it up. I had a great time & made pretty decent money. I was curious if there was an interest in doing it more than once a year? I know there are many vendors who would love something in the spring since most festivals do not start until May. Since this is an indoor space I thought it may be perfect. Or maybe doing it on a monthly basis to go with the gallery hop.

=====

love the future Any chance of having something similar in the spring?

Posted by Mary Sonya Conti - 2010/01/08 16:28

Thank you everyone who helped set it up. I had a great time & made pretty decent money. I was curious if there was an interest in doing it more than once a year? I know there are many vendors who would love something in the spring since most festivals do not start until May. Since this is an indoor space I thought it may be perfect. Or maybe doing it on a monthly basis to go with the gallery hop.

=====

love the future Any chance of having something similar in the spring?

Posted by Mary Kathryn Burnside - 2010/01/08 16:28

basis. Enjoyed the two days and met lots of beautiful folks. Thank you so much for the opportunity. On Fri, Dec 11, 2009 at 8:39 PM, MissMotleys <motleycruis...@sbcglobal.net> wrote: Thank you everyone who helped set it up. I had a great time & made pretty decent money. I was curious if there was an interest in doing it more than once a year? I know there are many vendors who would love something in the spring since most festivals do not start until May. Since this is an indoor space I thought it may be perfect. Or maybe doing it on a monthly basis to go with the gallery hop.

=====

love the future Any chance of having something similar in the spring?

Posted by Melissa - 2010/01/08 16:28

I think at least every other week for a craft night would be awesome. I also think that if there could be a vending possible event on First Fridays- at c{space or elsewhere if c{space is no longer an option- would be great!

=====

love the future Any chance of having something similar in the spring?

Posted by Mary Kathryn Burnside - 2010/01/08 16:28

I think at least every other week for a craft night would be awesome. I also think that if there could be a vending possible event on First Fridays- at c{space or elsewhere if c{space is no longer an option- would be great!

=====

love the future Any chance of having something similar in the spring?

Posted by Melissa - 2010/01/08 16:28

That's a great idea! Do you think there would be enough light and/or ability to run extension cords outside, or could the patio be used too? Plus, the sidewalk there is pretty wide and the railing around the patio would be a pretty good height to clamp lamps on for tables on the sidewalk... While I'm totally off-topic, I'm still wanting to do this: <http://craftmafia.com/startyourown.html> From the last time I looked, the dues seem to be a new thing, but with enough members that would be very low, and the Craft Mafias get a lot of press! Plus, there does not seem to be one in Ohio yet, and just the umbrella of a potential Dayton branch would be sweet! That might allow those of us who would love to do a big show like Bustacular to band together with one booth space without putting out the huge funds on our own. Okay, I'm overly excited with from my double Morning Thunder tea so please excuse my excessive off topic brainstorming:)

=====

love the future Any chance of having something similar in the spring?

Posted by Wendy Wagener - 2010/01/08 16:28

I would be happy to do more events, as my schedule will allow. Drat work getting in the way of things I really want to do! Let me know how I can help:) Wendy _____ From: Melissa <lissal...@yahoo.com To: 50-under-50@googlegroups.com Sent: Sat, December 12, 2009 11:47:43 AM Subject: Re: Any chance of having something similar in the spring? That's a great idea! Do you think there would be enough light and/or ability to run extension cords outside, or could the patio be used too? Plus, the sidewalk there is pretty wide and the railing around the patio would be a pretty good height to clamp lamps on for tables on the sidewalk... While I'm totally off-topic, I'm still wanting to do this: <http://craftmafia.com/startyourown.html> From the last time I looked, the dues seem to be a new thing, but with enough members that would be very low, and the Craft Mafias get a lot of press! Plus, there does not seem to be one in Ohio yet, and just the umbrella of a potential Dayton branch would be sweet! That might allow those of us who would love to do a big show like Bustacular to band together with one booth space without putting out the huge funds on our own. Okay, I'm overly excited with from my double Morning Thunder tea so please excuse my excessive off topic brainstorming:)

=====

love the future Any chance of having something similar in the spring?

Posted by Mary Kathryn Burnside - 2010/01/08 16:28

That's a great idea! Do you think there would be enough light and/or ability to run extension cords outside, or could the patio be used too? Plus, the sidewalk there is pretty wide and the railing around the patio would be a pretty good height to clamp lamps on for tables on the sidewalk... While I'm totally off-topic, I'm still wanting to do this: <http://craftmafia.com/startyourown.html> From the last time I looked, the dues seem to be a new thing, but with enough members that would be very low, and the Craft Mafias get a lot of press! Plus, there does not seem to be one in Ohio yet, and just the umbrella of a potential Dayton branch would be sweet! That might allow those of us who would love to do a big show like Bustacular to band together with one booth space without putting out the huge funds on our own. Okay, I'm overly excited with from my double Morning Thunder tea so please excuse my excessive off topic brainstorming:)

=====

love the future Any chance of having something similar in the spring?

Posted by Natasha Evans - 2010/01/08 16:28

<http://craftmafia.com/startyourown.html> From the last time I looked, the dues seem to be a new thing, but with enough members that would be very low, and the Craft Mafias get a lot of press! Plus, there does not seem to be one in Ohio yet, and just the umbrella of a potential Dayton branch would be sweet! That might allow those of us who would love to do a big show like Bustacular to band together with one booth space without putting out the huge funds on our own. Okay, I'm overly excited with from my double Morning Thunder tea so please excuse my excessive off topic brainstorming:)

=====

love the future Any chance of having something similar in the spring?

Posted by chuck ferrell - 2010/01/08 16:28

Thank you everyone who helped set it up. I had a great time & made pretty decent money. I was curious if there was an interest in doing it more than once a year? I know there are many vendors who would love something in the spring since most festivals do not start until May. Since this is an indoor space I thought it may be perfect. Or maybe doing it on a monthly basis to go with the gallery hop.

=====

love the future Any chance of having something similar in the spring?

Posted by Mary Kathryn Burnside - 2010/01/08 16:28

Thank you everyone who helped set it up. I had a great time & made pretty decent money. I was curious if there was an interest in doing it more than once a year? I know there are many vendors who would love something in the spring since most festivals do not start until May. Since this is an indoor space I thought it may be perfect. Or maybe doing it on a monthly basis to go with the gallery hop.

=====

love the future Any chance of having something similar in the spring?

Posted by chuck ferrell - 2010/01/08 16:28

Thank you everyone who helped set it up. I had a great time & made pretty decent money. I was curious if there was an interest in doing it more than once a year? I know there are many vendors who would love something in the spring since most festivals do not start until May. Since this is an indoor space I thought it may be perfect. Or maybe doing it on a monthly basis to go with the gallery hop.

=====

love the future Any chance of having something similar in the spring?

Posted by Melissa - 2010/01/08 16:28

Thank you everyone who helped set it up. I had a great time & made pretty decent money. I was curious if there was an interest in doing it more than once a year? I know there are many vendors who would love something in the spring since most festivals do not start until May. Since this is an indoor space I thought it may be perfect. Or maybe doing it on a monthly basis to go with the gallery hop.

=====

love the future Any chance of having something similar in the spring?

Posted by Mary Kathryn Burnside - 2010/01/08 16:28

Thank you everyone who helped set it up. I had a great time & made pretty decent money. I was curious if there was an interest in doing it more than once a year? I know there are many vendors who would love something in the spring since most festivals do not start until May. Since this is an indoor space I thought it may be perfect. Or maybe doing it on a monthly basis to go with the gallery hop.

=====

love the future Any chance of having something similar in the spring?

Posted by Alicia Marshall - 2010/01/08 16:28

Thank you everyone who helped set it up. I had a great time & made pretty decent money. I was curious if there was an interest in doing it more than once a year? I know there are many vendors who would love something in the spring since most festivals do not start until May. Since this is an indoor space I thought it may be perfect. Or maybe doing it on a monthly basis to go with the gallery hop.

=====

love the future Any chance of having something similar in the spring?

Posted by chuck ferrell - 2010/01/08 16:28

Thank you everyone who helped set it up. I had a great time & made pretty decent money. I was curious if there was an interest in doing it more than once a year? I know there are many vendors who would love something in the spring since most festivals do not start until May. Since this is an indoor space I thought it may be perfect. Or maybe doing it on a monthly basis to go with the gallery hop.

=====

love the future Any chance of having something similar in the spring?

Thank you everyone who helped set it up. I had a great time & made pretty decent money. I was curious if there was an interest in doing it more than once a year? I know there are many vendors who would love something in the spring since most festivals do not start until May. Since this is an indoor space I thought it may be perfect. Or maybe doing it on a monthly basis to go with the gallery hop.

=====

love the future Any chance of having something similar in the spring?

Posted by Melissa - 2010/01/08 16:28

Thank you everyone who helped set it up. I had a great time & made pretty decent money. I was curious if there was an interest in doing it more than once a year? I know there are many vendors who would love something in the spring since most festivals do not start until May. Since this is an indoor space I thought it may be perfect. Or maybe doing it on a monthly basis to go with the gallery hop.

=====

love the future Any chance of having something similar in the spring?

Posted by Natasha Evans - 2010/01/08 16:28

Thank you everyone who helped set it up. I had a great time & made pretty decent money. I was curious if there was an interest in doing it more than once a year? I know there are many vendors who would love something in the spring since most festivals do not start until May. Since this is an indoor space I thought it may be perfect. Or maybe doing it on a monthly basis to go with the gallery hop.

=====

love the future Any chance of having something similar in the spring?

Posted by MissMotleys - 2010/01/08 16:28

The monthly market in Cincy does a theme every month. It does pretty well. It brings in a variety of vendors who may specialize in a certain thing so you get some new blood who may want to continue vending there. It also gives the crowd who may come there for that event specifically an incentive to check it out & many return after.

=====

love the future Any chance of having something similar in the spring?

Posted by Melissa - 2010/01/08 16:28

Thank you everyone who helped set it up. I had a great time & made pretty decent money. I was curious if there was an interest in doing it more than once a year? I know there are many vendors who would love something in the spring since most festivals do not start until May. Since this is an indoor space I thought it may be perfect. Or maybe doing it on a monthly basis to go with the gallery hop.

=====